The Chinese Paradigm of Foreign Relations Law and Its Theoretical Development

DU Tao

(School of International Law, East China University of Political Science and Law, Shanghai, 201620)

Abstract: Foreign relations law is the general term for all legal norms for a country to adjust its foreign relations. Foreign relations law with Chinese characteristics is the manifestation of Xi Jinping Thought on Rule of Law and Xi Jinping Thought on Diplomacy. Constructing the legal system of foreign relations under socialism with Chinese characteristics is the need to break the western legal hegemony, to coordinate the construction of domestic and international rule of law, to meet the requirements of the current international situation and foreign policies, and to participate in global legal competition. Foreign relations law with Chinese characteristics needs to fully reflect Chinese paradigm in terms of discipline system, academic system and discourse system. Foreign relations law with Chinese characteristics must advocate and adhere to the Chinese paradigm on Xi Jinping Thought on Socialism with Chinese characteristics for a New Era. This new paradigm should adhere to the leadership of the Communist Party of China, adhere to the socialist approach, adhere to the concept of a Community of Shared Future for Mankind.
